We live in the bosom of nature here, and so I thought it would be a good scheme to celebrate on the Fourth in a pure and abstemious, yet highly hectic and luminous manner. Ignoring the sparkling domestic wines of the hill country, made from the large early yellow dent corn which is grown upon the suspensory farms of Buncombe county, I decided to purchase a few choice fireworks direct from the factory, and after touching lightly on the beauties of American freedom, reading of the Deciaration of Independence and an opening prayer in which the national policy for the coming year might be briefly laid.

the Decistration of Independence and an opening prayer in which the national policy for the coming year might be briefly laid before the Throne of Grace, I allowed to set off at evening tide about $$ worth of pyrotechnics, which would furnish a fitting close to the day's celebration.

I spent the early part of the summer selecting a choice array of things that I expected to use in casting a red glow over this part of the United States on the nation's natal day. Then I sent in the order.

Skyland is not a regular metropolis. It is young, but it is growing. With the investment of foreign capital and reciprocity with New Jersey we could soon build up a large trade. Ox yokes, whortleberries, frogs' legs, axhelves, sassafras bark, four in-hand railroad ties, mineral water, tar, pitch, tarpentine and lumber, are the principal exports. But the place is small yet. The waterworks are yet in their infancy, and the train does not stop unless flagged. We cannot hope, of course, to compete with New York as an outfitting and jobbing town until the train shows more of a tendency to pause here. In some respects we are abreast of the larger towns, having five churches, and a fine, well-uniformed band, good pasturage, five dwelling houses

I hat to attack a corporation that corsonally I respect for its sterling qualities of mind and heart, but the rail-road train does this piace most bitter and lasting injustice, it seems to me, for it pauses at the water tank, and yet, unless flagged, does not hesitate here, but rushes No road can hope to prosper that ig-pres the cries of the common people—and

This was followed by applause, which when being looked up, turned out to come from the wife of the speaker, who had been hunch-berrying, and hearing a noise in the direction of the speaker's stand, had drifted around that way, and having met the audience before shook hands with him and sat down to hear the address.

The speaser touched lightly on the subject of the presidency of 18 ½, and said that while his health was never so good as it was at this time, yet he did not wish his name used for two reasons. One was that he had been too fearless in his denunciations of the large moneyed interests, and the other was that he would rather lecture all winter at his present prices than to deget? all winter at his present prices than to de-liver ten free speeches per day out of the tallgate of a sleeping car and then get up three times in the night in a suit of pajams to inquire the name of the station and then make a ten minutes' cyclopedia speech on
